Student Spotlight JOSH ANDERSON

Hi everyone, I'm Josh Anderson and I am from a city in Portugal called Faro. I went to an all Portuguese school and learned the language at a very young age now speaking it fluently. After ten years of being there, I went to boarding school in Scotland because my parents are from there. I am attending LTCC to get my Associates Degree and then to move onto a 4-year University. For my future I would like to be doing something sports related, but I'll most likely go and join my dad who owns an oil drilling company. I am majoring in Social Sciences and enjoy seeing all those familiar faces that you've had awkward encounters with. The scenery I like the most are the views at the lakeside. I believe that with hard work and determination, this will get you wherever your heart desires. For places to visit I would recommend going to either Lisbon in Portugal, or Edinburgh in Scotland, as both cities have good old fashioned scenery. If you see me around college don't hesitate to say hello and ask me questions about my hometown.
