Black Panther

More than a movie, a MARVEL-ous campus conversation!

&

DISCUSSION

Dr. John Johnson, CSU Sacramento Focused on Afrotourism, Black cultural motifs, and how Black Panther fits in with the larger Marvel Cinematic Universe. Discussion will include Race-Blending, White Washing, and the importance of representation in mainstream media and the need for critical media literacy.

SPEAKER SPOTLIGHT

Dr. John Johnson

Dr. John Johnson is the Director of the Centers for Diversity & Inclusion at CSU Sac. A native of Philly, PA, Dr. spent his entire professional career working to support students and promote inclusion and social justice in higher education. Dr. Johnson has three degrees in Psychology and a PhD in Social Psychology from UC Santa Cruz. He has taught courses on Theories of Learning & Black Psychology and has worked in different higher ed capacities for more than 15 years.

During his MARVEL-ous Campus Conversations presentation at NCORE (National Conference on Race & Ethnicity) in 2018 staff HAD to bring him to LTCC to share with the entire campus.

Please join me in welcoming Dr. Johnson to Coyote Country and learn how Black Panther is more than a movie!
